Message from SINCERO: About driving under the influence

The Road Traffic Law does not use the term "Inshu unten" for driving under the influence (DUI), but it is officially called "Shukiobiunten" and "Sake-yoi unten". If the driver is caught DUI, the penalty for the vehicle supplier is "up to 5 years in prison or a fine of up to 1 million yen" under the Highway Traffic Law. In other words, the same penalties will apply as drivers who were drunk while driving. Passengers and alcoholic beverage providers will also be punished with imprisonment of up to 3 years or a fine of up to 500,000 yen. Even a small amount of alcohol can impair brain function. It can cause an accident, such as not being able to turn a curve that normally passes without a problem or ignoring the traffic lights and colliding with an oncoming vehicle. Please, if you drink, do not drive.

Coronavirus Prevention

The number of people infected with the coronavirus is increasing. Let us take care of ourselves. We all need to understand the real danger of the virus's spread and what it can do to our lives.

Let us take care of ourselves and act responsibly, such as washing our hands, wearing a mask, ventilating the house, taking the temperature, not leaving the house and not having visitors.

If you notice any change in physical condition (sore throat, runny nose, lack of smell and taste, among others) inform the Tantosha immediately.

We ask everyone to continue to cooperate in preventing infections and let us work together to overcome difficulties without losing our composure and compassion for others.
